Sumaq Kawsay:

Pachamama Sacred Paths' Member Standards for Living

- I intend to live a life committed to honoring our sacred mother earth and all life via the principles of Kawsay (Existence). Respecting, embracing, and accepting the truth of everything that exists, whether it is a person, thing, or Situation.
- I intend to integrate a process of Daily Sadhana: spiritual practice whether it is Ukhu Runanchiq (spiritual service to yourself) or Hawa Runanchiq (spiritual service to others) into my life; investing some time each day in the process of Self-awareness that connects me to my Essence.
- I intend to fulfill the commitment to experience my nature through the communion of natural Sacred Plant Medicines. I commit to respecting my body as the Temple of my spirit which is in natural alignment with the cosmos itself from where it has been Created. Natural Sacred Plant Medicine which allows me to experience my personal nature in conscious Ways.
- I vow to honor and respect the privacy of my fellow members and their Sharing.
- I intend to practice Ayni (Balance) towards Pachamama Sacred Paths and its Members. I vow to maintain the Ayni and reciprocity within myself as I receive and observe gifts of healing in my life Manifesting. I will continue to keep myself in balance with Pachamama Sacred Paths.
- I will reflect on actions of mine that may reflect on Pachamama Sacred Paths.
- I am aware of the transformation process that these previous commitments imply for me and those around me, and I commit to reviewing these standards of living frequently to be able to apply them Consistently.

- I commit to never engaging in sales or marketing of the church's sacraments with anyone outside (or inside) the organization.
- I agree not to disrespect the medicines and sacraments by sitting with them for any recreational or Abusive purposes.
- I will never manipulate or take advantage of others emotionally, sexually, mentally, spiritually, or physically.
